Great Reads for All

Everything Oz By Christine Leech & Hannah Read-Baldrey (Chicago Review Press, $25)

A bounty of Oz-themed crafts, both edible (Over the Rainbow Cake) and non-edible (a flying monkey-themed hooded baby bath towel), will delight fans of Baum's classic book that inspired the classic movie and current movie craze.

Early Readers

The Little Recycler By Jan Gerardi (Random House, $7)

Even your youngest child is ready to learn about recycling through this rhyming, lift-the-flap board book that educates the reader on all the things that can be reused and recycled.

I Dare You Not to Yawn By Helene Boudreau, illustrated by Serge Bloch (Candlewick, $16)

Did just reading that title make you yawn? This book is all about yawns and how they are as easy to catch as colds, which just might make it the perfect book to read at bedtime. Yawn!

Open Very Carefully: A Book with Bite By Nick Bromley, illustrated by Nicola O'Byrne (Nosy Crow, $16)

What happens when the Hans Christian Anderson classic The Ugly Duckling is hijacked by a very scary crocodile? Hilarity ensues.

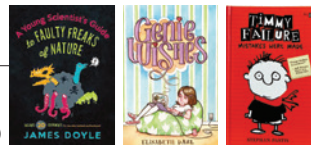

Prairie Chicken Little By Jackie Mims Hopkins, illustrated by Henry Cole (Peachtree, $16)

A riff on the classic tale of the young bird warning of the falling sky, our chick warns of an impending stampede—or is it?

Grades 3+

A Young Scientist's Guide to Faulty Freaks of Nature By James Doyle, illustrated by Andrew Brozyna (Gibbs Smith, $15)

Kids love to try things out for themselves, and this book lets curious kids try out a variety of relatively tame experiments after reading some random, sometimes gross, science facts.

Genie Wishes By Elisabeth Dahl (Amulet, $17)

Fifth grade can be a dramatic year, as evidenced by the adventures of Genie and her friend Sarah—and Sarah's new friend Blair.

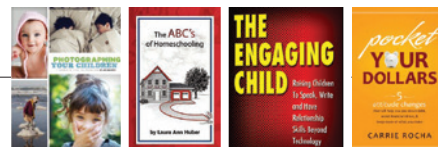

Timmy Failure: Mistakes Were Made By Stephan Pastis (Candlewick, $15)

Young Timmy is in charge of his own detective agency, founded to help his mom pay the bills in this first title of a new series. Readers will enjoy a fun whodunit mystery with humor and emotion.

Adults

Photographing Your Children By Jen Altman (Chronicle, $23)

Learn the basics of great photography—and how to take great pictures of your kids while you're at it—with this book all about cameras and photography.

The A-B-Cs of Homeschooling By Laura Ann Huber (Telemachus, $15)

Considering homeschooling? Huber offers an A-to-Z listing of topics and techniques to keep in mind.

The Engaging Child By Maribeth & Lizzie Kuzmeski (Red Zone, $19)

Modern children likely have the technological skills to succeed, but do they have the offline skills like writing, speaking, listening and empathy? This book helps develop these skills.

Pocket Your Dollars By Carrie Rocha (Bethany House, $14)

Financial health comes from changing your attitudes about money. Author and financial expert Rocha delivers real-life advice for avoiding financial stress.
